

The HackettGroup of Companies
Maguire Enterprises, Inc. and APCOR, Inc.

You know us as reliable designers, manufacturers and distributors of unique cables that connect medical electronic devices to each other as well as to integrated systems.

Throughout this pandemic, the HackettGroup of Companies has continued to produce and ship medical device cables, of which our most requested are ventilator alarm cables. Although we have reduced our in-facility staff as a cautionary measure, our skeleton crew works tirelessly to keep providing the highest quality products.

Our engineering and purchasing departments have been working closely with our vendors, keeping our skilled production line supplied and allowing them to continue manufacturing the top-quality products you need and, in most cases, ship them to you the next day.

We were here for you long before the arrival of COVID-19; remain dependable during this pandemic, and proudly stand ready to meet your needs as we all keep moving forward.

Wishing you all continued good health,

William R. Hackett
